LECTURE DAYS:

Saturday (9.00am - 6.00pm)

The SMC Ph.D consists (consecutively) of two semesters of course work, one half-semester, part of which is spent on an overseas study, one and half semesters of field work, and two semesters of thesis writing.

On admission, students are required to take the prescribed taught courses and undergo the recommended language proficiency course. Progress in the programme depends on one's performance in the first year.

OPERATIONAL DESIGN

The PhD programme of the SMC is full-time. However, during the period of course work, classes take place only on Saturdays. In addition, during the same period, there will be an intensive week once every semester.
